Judge’s comments: “This is a great mix of photo, video and words which gets to the heart of good multimedia reporting: The video contained sound components not quite translatable through photo or word, the photos allowed for us to linger on the signs and dress of those attending the march; the words helped to bring it all together into a more complete story. This is what newsrooms would expect of a reporter in the field for daily coverage. To see you execute that vision here bodes well for your journalism careers.
